Bermuda College Virtual Ceremony

PREMIER'S CONGRATULATORY REMARKS

The Hon. E. David G. Burt JP, MP

Premier

On behalf of the Government of Bermuda, it is my pleasure to extend wholehearted congratulations to the graduates of the Bermuda College Class of 2021.

Today, you will carry on a legacy that started in 1974 when Bermuda College commenced providing a curriculum for the education and training of young Bermudians. The Bermuda College legacy has produced outstandingly gifted and respected community, political and business leaders whom you now join as you complete your academic journey and embark on new endeavours.

What you have learned during these past few years whether in business, science, technical education, or hospitality will serve you throughout your careers. The Government believes each of you will carry on the legacy as you close this chapter and begin another.

We also applaud your tenacity and perseverance. The past 14 months have surely not been easy but you did not allow the difficult moments to curtail your commitment to your studies and goals. The determination represented by each of you serves as an inspiration to us all at a time when we need it most. The community joins with your family and friends to celebrate your success.

To quote one of the most successful international footballers of the 20th century, Pelé, "Success is no accident. It is hard work, perseverance, learning, studying, sacrifice and most of all, love of what you are doing or learning to do." Let this accomplishment continually serve as a reminder that you possess the will and ability to achieve great things no matter the obstacles you may face.

Sincerely,

The Hon. Diallo Rabain JP, MP

Minister of Education

Congratulations Bermuda College graduating Class of 2021.

Today is a special day, for you it culminates your introduction to tertiary education, and is a rite of passage to launch you into your next journey in life.

Although the COVID-19 pandemic has caused much uncertainty, and changed the way we function, your tenacity and work ethic have driven you to succeed.

You do not have to stop here! This graduation has shown you that you can accomplish your goals when you commit to them.

I hope that all of you today take this personal accomplishment as an example that the sky's the limit - when you decide that you will go for it.

Although it may not be easy to see now, every accomplishment you achieve is added to the world's accomplishments. Your individual successes benefit society as a whole because when you succeed, you lighten the burden on your fellow man. When you succeed, you are in a position to give back to your community.

Imagine if every individual lived up to his or her own potential, think about how amazing that would be, and how much better off the world would be.

While we may not have the power to inspire the entire world to strive for success, we do have the power to achieve it for ourselves. My challenge to you is to do all that you can to reach your full potential, take what you have learned and move forward with passion and a driven determination to use your knowledge and your skills.

It is said that the two most significant times of your life are the day you are born, and then the day you figure out why you were born.

As you continue to dive into continuing your path towards figuring out your purpose and answering the question 'why were you born?', start by finding ways to connect directly to the world for inspiration. With today's technology at your fingertips, it is easy to search Google for an answer and for job inspiration. However, you can't use Google for what is in your heart - the passion that drives you, lifts you up, and gives you real purpose and meaning in life.

I encourage you to not necessarily choose a road that is the most easily travelled. Significant accomplishments and achievements in life are not meant to come with ease. They require uncommon dedication and focus. Never allow limitations to confine your abilities, even if those limitations have been set by those who are closest to you.

Take each new problem on with confidence, knowing that you have achieved great heights and are equipped with the necessary tools to tackle anything that comes your way.

Remember, your country is here to support you and wish you all the best in the future.

Mr. Peter Sousa

Chairman of the Board, Bermuda College

Congratulations Graduates!

On behalf of the Bermuda College Board of Governors, I extend my congratulations to the Class of 2021.

Today is a time of celebration, enabling us to recognise your success and the Bermuda College's success in its role of preparing you for the opportunities ahead.

Today we recognise your dedication, discipline and determination in your chosen field of study. We also recognise the support and sacrifices of the graduates' parents and families. Special thanks also go to the College faculty and staff for their invaluable guidance, instruction and support to the graduates.

The past year has been no ordinary year, as we have experienced and witnessed incredible, unforeseen and devastating change due to the pandemic. Examples of such change are moving to remote online instruction and learning, temporary restrictions on free movement within Bermuda and terrible losses. Family, friends and colleagues have lost their lives; others have lost their jobs; and others, their plans for the future. Despite all of this you persevered, and the faculty and staff were steadfast in carrying out their important roles and responsibilities. Our community is strengthened and uplifted by your collective courage and all of us can be rightly proud of your achievement. Bermuda will emerge stronger from this current challenge with your help.

The Class of 2021 joins the prestigious ranks of Bermuda College alumni. You will be joining a group that represents all segments of our community and you will be expected to play your part in Bermuda's continued success and prosperity. What path will you continue on from here?

"When written in Chinese, the word "crisis" is composed of two characters - one represents danger and one represents opportunity."

BC CLASS OF 2021...You Made It!

Leonardo da Vinci was once at work for a long period of time on a great masterpiece. He had laboured long to create this work of art and it was near completion. Standing near him was a young student who spent much of his time with his mouth open, amazed at the master with the brush. Just before finishing the painting, da Vinci turned to the young student and gave him the brush and said, "Now, you finish it." The student protested and backed away, but da Vinci said, "Will not what I have done inspire you to do your best?"

Today the entire Bermuda College family of executives, administrators, faculty and support staff hand you the brush to continue to develop the masterpiece of your lives with full confidence; not asking, but knowing that you have been inspired by your time with us, and have learned to press through and do your very best no matter what confronts you along the way.

We know that the past 15 months have presented you with challenges unique to the pandemic. Yet, you've risen to the top, defying the odds, and are today, joining the illustrious company of the Class of 2021 graduates around the world who have achieved and succeeded, just as you have. Congratulations! And thank you for allowing us to be a part of your academic journey.

Remember us here at Bermuda College... truly, we will never forget you!

Magna mirabilia portendi!—Great and wonderful things are foretold...

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The processional and recessional parade of students, faculty and staff dressed in their academic regalia is a spectacular and inspiring sight and has long been part of academic tradition. The day itself signifies a highpoint of dedication and achievement and, for many, will signal a turning point in their lives.

COLLEGE MACE

The Mace of Parliament or of an incorporated institution is the visible symbol of the authority granted to that body. When the Bermuda College Mace lies on the table at the public meeting of the College's Board of Governors known as Commencement, its presence signifies that the actions taken at that meeting, ie., the conferring of Associate Degrees, Diplomas and Certificates on the individuals who have earned them, are taken under the authority granted to the Board of Governors by the Bermuda College Act of 1974.

The Mace is made of Bermuda Cedar in three parts, joined together. At one end is a large ball of birds-eye cedar turned from the growth found on a dead stump on the Stonington property. It is supported by a cup which was turned from a piece taken from a cedar tree which had been taken down to make room to build the Technical Institute on Roberts Avenue in 1956. This building, under the name of the Commerce and Technology Building, became one of the first buildings used by the Bermuda College when it was incorporated in 1974. The straight shaft was turned from a straight piece of cedar which had grown on the property of the College's second Chief Executive Officer and first President, Dr. A.C. Hollis Hallett. The Mace was made in the Carpentry and Joinery workshop of the College on Roberts Avenue by J. Edgar Castle in 1979; Mr. Castle was then the College's lecturer in Carpentry and Joinery. The Mace was first used at the College's first Commencement in 1979 and was carried in procession by its maker. Today it is carried by the 'Employee of the Year'.

ACADEMIC REGALIA is the term used to describe the special dress, emblems, and symbols associated with higher education. Like colleges and universities all across the world, our ceremony observes many of the traditions of academic regalia.

The caps and gowns seen today had origins dating back to medieval times when churches oversaw all educational institutions. Students wore heavy black gowns, similar to those of the clergy with hoods that could be pulled up for warmth. Today, different styles of gowns are worn to represent different levels of education, many of which have been borrowed from the traditions of Britain's colleges and universities. For example, the early students of Oxford and Cambridge universities wore white fur-trimmed hoods as they received their baccalaureate degrees. As a result, white became the colour representing the arts and literature. As a traditional colour of the church, red came to represent theology; the green of herbs was associated with the study of medicine; golden yellow, represented the wealth of knowledge science produced, or perhaps the early goal of science students to create gold! Today 26 colours represent virtually every field of study. At Bermuda College, those students graduating with certificates wear turquoise stoles with silver bars; those with diplomas, turquoise chevron hoods; and graduates of associate degrees receive black hoods with a turquoise and silver chevron – the College’s colours.

Members of the faculty and staff also parade in regalia representing their level of educational achievement. Those who hold baccalaureate degrees wear black gowns with three-foot long hoods. Master’s degree recipients wear black gowns with long square-cut sleeves and hoods that are three-and-a-half feet long; while those with doctoral degrees may wear black, maroon or navy gowns with four-foot long hoods. The gowns have velvet facings on the front, and three velvet crossbars on each of the sleeves. They may also wear the traditional square mortarboard caps or a beret-like cap made of velvet.

Whatever the distinctive robes you see before you today, you can be assured of the many hours of study and hard work that the wearers have invested to hold title to their achievements. Well done! Academic regalia link us to the past and unite us with the aspirations of those who will succeed us in the common pursuit of higher learning!

NOTE: Students graduating with a programme GPA in the range of 3.00 to 3.49 will be designated as having graduated with Merit. Those with a programme GPA of 3.50 or greater will be designated as having graduated with Distinction. These designations will appear on the official signed and embossed associate degrees and certificates of the College.
